FUND COMMENTARY

Global equity markets delivered a strong performance of +7.3% over the quarter (in USD, +5.1% in GBP, MSCI ACTR Index). Volatility levels dropped by -15% over the quarter, currently close to the five year average (VIX Index). It seems equity markets continue their process of normalisation.

The most recent calm follows from an absence of further banking shocks following the Credit Suisse rescue. The swift and firm responses from the US and Swiss central banks to their respective particular 'bad apples' and mechanisms that have been put in place to contain the crystallization of US banks' bond losses seem to have calmed investor nerves.

Also, critically, on the US inflation front, new data is constructive towards investor sentiment. Top-line inflation continues dropping, with the February reading already at 6.0%. PCE (Private Consumer Expenditure, the Federal Reserve's key inflation measure), has dropped to 4.6%. Implied long-term inflation expectations remain dampened at 2.3%. No new data that materially supports fears for sticky inflation has come to the fore. With the downward trend in US wage growth, along with the huge numbers of lay-offs in some sectors, wages currently seem less of an inflation threat than before.

The mini banking crisis has had an important side-effect of lowering US interest rates (over one percent on the shorter end). The lower yields can offset tighter lending standards to some extent. Furthermore, the yield curve (whilst in inverted territory) steepened sharply from an extreme -1.08% level to -0.57% currently. This combination of lower rates and a steepening curve, along with lower inflation, further contributes to calm investor sentiment.

Whilst risks for a US recession remain high, odds are growing sharply for an imminent Chinese economic recovery with positive effects on world trade and the global economy.

During March the largest contributors to the overall fund performance were Microsoft, Alphabet and Adobe. The only detractor of any significance was Zoetis.

RISK DISCLOSURE

The Fund may hold a relatively small number of stocks as compared to many other funds. This may make the Fund's performance more volatile than would be the case if it had a more diversified investment portfolio.
