PORTFOLIO COMMENTARY

The Global Balanced Portfolio returned 1.4% in December, taking returns in 2021 to 8.6%.

Our investment strategy continues to favour equities whilst leaning away from conventional government bonds. Our equity portfolio is balanced favouring high conviction active managers with differentiating specialisms. The US market is at the core of our global equity portfolios.

This strategy worked well in 2021. The rebound in consumer activity since the lockdowns of winter 2020/21 has been dramatic, driving company earnings growth. In turn, global equities have registered another year of double-digit returns, led by the US. Government bond yields have risen from near historic lows. This investment landscape presented opportunities for both value and growth investors, with many traditional businesses benefitting from economic reopening whilst structural technological trends accelerated. Lyrical, our US value manager, returned 30.4% for the year, outperforming the US market by 2.9%, while the Stonehage Fleming Global Best Ideas fund, a quality and growth strategy, returned 23.4%, outperforming the global market by 3.8%. Our weakest performers came in Europe and Emerging Markets as investor sentiment remained subdued towards those regions for most of the year.

We introduced two new active equity managers in December; the Artisan US Focus fund and the Driehaus US Small Cap fund. These managers are highly skilled in their respective field and their allocation reflects our optimistic outlook for the global economy and the prognosis for selective risk assets. Nonetheless, we continue to maintain a heightened level of vigilance against potentially severe headwinds, including Omicron and future variants, the trajectory for inflation and interest rates, valuation levels and geopolitical risks.
