PORTFOLIO COMMENTARY

The Global Growth Portfolio returned -0.5% in January. Markets rose early in the month on hopes of additional fiscal stimulus in the US and an acceleration in the rollout of COVID-19 vaccinations. Elevated volatility followed, driven by concentrated retail investor trading in a small number of stocks. Equity markets ended the month marginally lower.

The portfolio benefited from strong returns in emerging market equities, driven by China, which is an area we have increased this month with the introduction of a new manager (Veritas Asian). Another notable outperformer was the Sector Healthcare fund, which continues to demonstrate strong defensive qualities. Within fixed income, we saw strong returns from our credit managers, with PIMCO Income outperforming relative to its benchmark.

ACTIVE MANAGER IN FOCUS

The Veritas Asian Fund is an active strategy focused on Asian equities exhibiting high quality and growth characteristics. The manager favours companies in the consumer, healthcare and technology sectors with demonstrable management quality, strong business models and high cash flow generation. The fund has delivered outperformance over the broad Asia-ex Japan market since its inception in 2004. We believe Asia has strong long-term growth prospects driven by structural tailwinds and have a high opinion of the Veritas Asian strategy in this market.
