PORTFOLIO COMMENTARY

The Global Multi Asset Portfolio Class C returned 3.0% in June versus 3.5% for the benchmark in sterling terms. June was another good month for equity markets in aggregate following strong performance from the technology sector and US equities. Sentiment was impacted by hawkish Federal Reserve comments mid-month which indicated they were willing to raise rates earlier than the market expected in order to control inflation. The result was to send the US dollar higher, rates lower, and dampen some of the euphoria around the 'reopening' trade leading to falls in sectors such as Financials and Materials. Fixed Income assets saw gains in the month as rates fell and credit spreads tightened further.

Within the equity book, it was our managers focused on high growth and quality businesses who delivered the strongest returns. The two standout performers in the month were Edgewood and the Stonehage Fleming Global Best Ideas Fund, both of which have higher allocations to technology businesses. Our recently added Asia Growth manager, Veritas, also performed well. It was a more difficult month for those managers seeking companies trading at lower valuation multiples, such as Lyrical and GLG Undervalued Assets. Companies most impacted were those sensitive to global economies reopening such as those connected to the airline industry. Our thematic managers had a mixed month, with the insurance industry negatively impacted by the fall in rates, but our healthcare manager benefitted from Growth sectors coming back into favour.

The total contribution from the fixed income positions in US dollar terms were close to flat in the month. Longer duration quality bonds rose as rates fell and this positively impacted our global investment grade manager, Bluebay, as well as our Global Aggregate ETF position. However, the stronger US dollar was a headwind to several of our positions, including the recently initiated China Bond ETF and our emerging market local debt manager, BlackRock.

Within alternatives, our gold position saw a notable fall on the back of the Federal Reserve comments. The long/short managers, Marshall Wace and Sandler, both saw positive returns following Growth as an investment style working better. We also had positive performance from our catastrophe bond position.

ACTIVE MANAGER IN FOCUS

MW ESG (Market Neutral) TOPS UCITS Fund

The MW ESG (Market Neutral) TOPS strategy is an ESG derivation of Marshall Wace's (MW) long standing TOPS strategy. TOPS blends fundamentally underpinned trade ideas from the sell side community with sophisticated optimization, portfolio construction and risk management. Whilst this is a new strategy, it leverages the same core engine and quantitative intelligence that has been accumulated and developed by MW over the last 20 years.

The strategy has been tailored to suit an ESG investor through: onboarding ESG focused sell side analysts to generate fundamentally underpinned ESG trade ideas; introducing exclusions and restrictions on exposure to certain industries; supplementing trade ideas with proprietary signals linked to ESG factors and introducing ESG scoring at the portfolio construction stage.

The strategy is expected to be under constant evolution due to ongoing quant analysis, increases in and improvement in ESG data, and additional onboarding of sell side analysts.
