COMMENTARY

After a short rebound in October, sentiment on equity markets fell increasingly as further evidence of Chinese growth and falling corporate profitability became evident. The Federal Reserve's decision to raise rates at the end of December, whilst supposedly a signal of the health of the US economy, was greeted nervously by investors worried about the aforementioned headwinds to global growth.

The quarter saw a continuation of regional and sector performance dispersion, with US and Japanese equities leading markets higher and UK and Emerging Markets lagging, although currency had some part to play in this. Similar sector themes to previous quarters prevailed with consumer, healthcare and technology stocks significantly outperforming commodity and utilities companies.

The Fund underperformed the benchmark over the quarter, returning 5.3% against the benchmark return of 6.1%. The environment proved to be a more challenging one for active managers, especially those with a value style such as the Stonehage Fleming UK Core fund, run by Majedie, which rotated the portfolio into cheaper segments of the market which continued to underperform. However there was evidence of good stock selection from the likes of the Stonehage Fleming European All Cap and recently purchased Stonehage Global Best Ideas funds. Regional positioning continued to be a positive contributor through the overweight US and underweight UK and Emerging Markets positioning.

The Lazard Global Listed Infrastructure fund was sold from the Fund at the beginning of the period due to concerns over valuation levels of high quality infrastructure assets. A position in the Stonehage Global Best Ideas fund, which invests in a concentrated list of high quality global companies, was also initiated.
