PORTFOLIO COMMENTARY

The Numis Alternative Markets Index (incl. Investment Companies) fell by 1.4% in the month and underperformed the rest of the market, which showed some advance. Having significantly outperformed in the previous month, the TM Stonehage Fleming AIM Fund saw its value decline by 2.8%. Much of this may be attributed to an overweight position in the energy sector, where share prices have experienced profit taking after gas prices came off their best levels. Elsewhere there was limited news flow from our holdings, where the majority have December year ends.

It is noticeable that the last quarter of the year is a quiet one and often a low level of activity can cause share prices to drift lower. Where results disappoint there can be a disproportionate reaction. Provided fundamentals are sound, this will provide an opportunity to add to holdings at very attractive valuations. Included in this area we have added to Bango (carrier billing software), Induction Healthcare (video consultation services), Iomart (data centres) and Venture Life (self-care products). We disposed of our remaining interest in Big Blu, following receipt of the proceeds from the sale of its main subsidiary, and reduced some other holdings which had outperformed.

During the month the Chancellor announced his budget and there were no unpleasant surprises. On the contrary, there was a variety of moves to increase spending, with a view to encouraging growth in the UK economy. It was realised that the cost of living would increase due to higher raw material and energy costs, and an increase in National Insurance. Also supply chain problems such as shortage of HGV drivers are likely to drive up prices. Inflation was forecast to increase and some estimates looked for it to peak at 5%. If this were the case, interest rates could rise, but the Bank of England recently signalled no change. In recognition of the cost pressures the Government lifted pay restraints for the public sector and this could also add to inflationary pressures. From a corporate aspect, we have found from discussions with the bulk of companies we follow that there is an understanding that price increases due to rising costs are accepted and many are able to cope, and some may even benefit.

The oil and gas sector has been out of favour for some time due to ESG concerns. These are being taken very seriously by the industry and the majority of companies look like achieving the UK Government 2030 deadline earlier than anticipated. Results should show that companies in the sector are considerably undervalued and the AIM portfolio contains a number of gas producers where emissions are low. Elsewhere we feel that the majority of our companies will continue their recovery from the lockdown period, and we have confidence in the prospects for the fund over the next few years.

IMPORTANT INFORMATION

Derivatives have not been used but are allowed if appropriate for efficient asset management. The Fund only invests in UK assets but is allowed to hold shares on overseas exchanges. This would occur in the event of a company delisting from the London stock market and would not be expected to be material. Hence, there would be limited foreign exchange risk.

The fund invests in a broad range of AIM listed companies and some of these carry a higher risk of failure and may be less liquid than shares listed on other exchanges. These shares may be also harder to sell quickly because of this lower liquidity. AIM listed companies may also experience greater price volatility which could also affect the value of the fund.
