PORTFOLIO COMMENTARY

In September the TM Stonehage Fleming International Fund performance was as follows:

- B share class units declined in value by 0.13%
- This performance was against a rise of 0.23% in the MSCI ACWI NR USD
- Fund and Index performance data sourced from Morningstar.

In September, global equity markets trod water as the China/US disputes continued, Brexit news flow recaptured the headlines and global case numbers of the Covid-19 virus picked up. The style rotation of last month reversed, with cyclical names underperforming.

The Fund benefitted from its exposure to Consumer Discretionary and in particular Nike, which delivered strong results. It has positioned itself well with its digital strategy and strong marketing. Nike is a resilient brand in the face of further pandemic lockdowns, with athleisurewear benefitting from the increased working-from-home trend and the focus on better health and fitness to ward off the virus. The Japanese names in the Fund also contributed positively to performance with Nidec, the Precision Motors specialist, potentially in line to supply Tesla and Keyence, buoyed by better growth expectations. Citigroup and Alps Alpine suffered from the rotation back out of value and were the main detractors for the month.

September's transactions brought the Fund transition almost to completion. We anticipate the trading activity to fall from here. The largest trades included the initiation of a position in China Resources Land and the sales of Airbus, Total, Rio Tinto, Sainsbury's, Bank of China, Hong Kong Exchange, Sony, Toyota and LG Chemical. The holdings in Sika, ICICI Bank, Naver, Edwards Lifesciences, Pool, Tractor Supply and Zoetis were increased.

The global outlook remains uncertain as the US presidential election creeps closer and questions hang over US fiscal policy beyond November. As the second wave of Covid-19 drives further local and possibly national lockdowns, the market will be looking for positive news on the development of a vaccine and the ability to scale production rapidly. Companies have had time to adapt and ready themselves for this new reality and those with strong leadership are poised to succeed. The outlook for global monetary policy remains accommodative and this should support equity valuations going forward.
